Annual banquet honors Valleyites

CC makes 4 'good egg' service awards

Gold "good egg" awards for outstanding community service were made at the annual installation banquet of Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce Friday night at CV Golf and Country Club.

Honored were Frank J. Murphy, owner of Murphy Lumber

Co.; "Auntie" Marge Ibsen, long-time Carmel Valley librarian who recently retired; Mrs. George Glendenning, president of the board of Carmel Valley Youth Organization, and Ken Van Hagen of CV General Store, retiring CC president, and community leader.

Making the presentations was Rex White, chairman of a committee of previous recipients of "good egg" awards, who made the selections this year.

He related that "good eggs" have been presented annually as suggested by the first chamber president, Byington Ford, in 1954. He added that in some years only one good egg award has been presented and in others as many as six.

Following are the service-stories of the four honored this year as read by Rex White:

FRANK MURPHY

"Our first award goes to one of the first businessmen in Carmel Valley. Twenty years ago the Murphy Lumber Co. was opened in the Village and 13 years ago Frank Murphy assumed personal management of it.

"Since that time Frank has assisted our Valley organizations with countless loans or donations of building materials for their various projects. His good deeds are the kind that seldom are mentioned in the newspapers but those of us who have had occasion to ask favors of him over the years, know of his unfailing generosity and willingness to help out a good cause.

BOBBY GLENDENNING

"Our next award goes to a lady who has contributed, over the past three years, an unbelievable number of hours of her time, so that our young teenagers could have a successful organization. During the past 20 years many such organizations have come and gone, failed to function successfully for one reason or another.

"In 1965 Bobby Glendenning was one of the founders of the present Carmel Valley Youth Organization and since that time has been the president of the adult board. Her ability to work with and understand both young people and adults and her endless perseverance and patience have resulted in helping our young people to have a good organization and has inspired the rest of the community to aid in their cause.

"One more thing we should mention about Bobby, and it is something for which any mother should get some kind of a medal — she served as a Cub Scout Den Mother for 2 years.

KEN VAN HAGEN

"Our third good egg goes to an excellent example of the good egg tradition. For five years Ken Van Hagen has been active as assistant coach and treasurer of the Carmel Valley Little League. For nine years he has been a member and director of the Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club and participated in their community service projects.

Bottaro installed CC prexy, calls for 'year of identity'

Calling for 1968 to be "a year of identity for Carmel Valley," Tom Bottaro was installed new president of Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce at the annual banquet at CV Golf and Country Club Friday night.

He invited "ideas, suggestions, even complaints to help Carmel Valley grow in the way we and other residents want it to grow."

Supervisor Willard Branson, career and whatever it is we are sure it will be a successful one."

featured speaker who is also a Valley resident, echoed Bottaro's appreciation for controlling the growth of Carmel Valley. "I say thanks to you who have held back the tide of commercialism," he said. "We can keep abreast of the times without losing our identity."

Among those with whom he credited in the past with major conservation were Byington Ford, Col. Allen Griffin and Carmel Martin Sr.

NEW OFFICERS

Other new officers installed included Dr. Dean Campbell, first vice president; Richard Brinton, second vice president; Ken Van Hagen, succeeding Tom Hefling as treasurer.

Directors are Bottaro, Dr. Campbell, Brinton, Virginia De Maria, Louis Gardner, Louis Allaire, Tom Hefling, Skip Marquard, Joan Bennett, Dr. Ed Marcucci, Ralph Updike, Tom Verga, Will Fay, Robert Kvenild, Pat Swan, Mae Youngberg, Rex White, Luis Wolter, Louis McCreery and Bill Norton.

Retiring Pres. Van Hagen introduced the new officers and praised the service of Sec. Rae Black. "We're all going to miss Tom Hefling, treasurer, who has left the Valley," he added. He added appreciation for his wife who was home ill with the flu.

Doing his usual lively and entertaining job as MC for the evening was Dr. Marcucci. He insisted that Lou Gardner lead the group in the chamber motto, which Lou reminisced was composed some years ago by Peggy Porter Morrow.

MOTTO AMUSES

The motto, which provided a light touch to the events, is as follows: "We're for DO instead of don't. We're for CAN instead of won't. We're for SMILES instead of frowns. We're for KISSES instead of ouches."

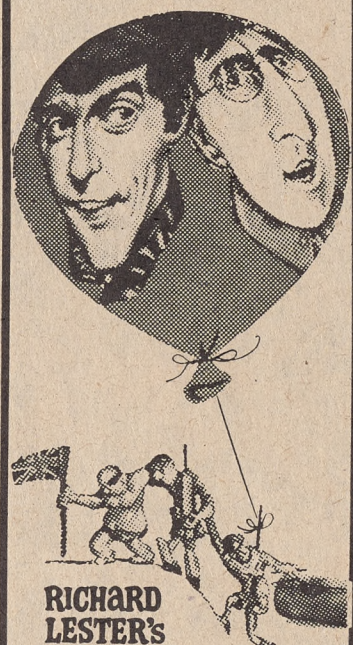

Door prizes contributed by merchants, were awarded by Tom Verga. When Irene Baldwin won two prizes, Dr. Marcucci called her "Lucky Baldwin."

Supervisor Branson, noting that "it is not your intent to

Marcucci-Strathmeyer discuss subdivision ordinance

Inaccuracies in the last issue of The Outlook, under the caption "Planning Commission Ignores CVPOA," were pointed out by Dr. Ed Marcucci, Valley representative on the county Planning Commission. His statement follows.

I did not inform a representative of the CVPOA or several members of the CVPOA that there would not be Public Hearing on the Subdivision Ordinance, Jan. 10, 1968.

I did tell a representative of the CVPOA that the Association should be represented at the meeting; unfortunately this was not done.

It was not reported in the article that the section pertaining to roads, which caused some concern to the CVPOA according to their representative, was left out for further study and assessment. The statement that "one may wake up and find that they have an illegal lot" is specious, and negated by the following report of the minutes of the Jan. 10 PlanCom meeting, which reads as follows:

PLANCOM MINUTES

"1. Subdivision Ordinance Amendment (PC-290).

"Mr. Bakeman (assistant PlanCom staff director) stated that the Board of Supervisors wishes to redefine the definition of a subdivision. This will help alleviate the hardships that were caused by divisions of property that didn't comply with the Subdivision Ordinance by amending the Ordinance to tie separate ownerships into the 1964-65 County tax roll. 1964 is the first year in which minor subdivision applications appeared on the tax roll. Since the staff feels they now have a good system of ascertaining division of property, through cooperation of the Assessor's Office, it was felt that the Commission should also revise the definition of minor subdivision by requiring applications for all divisions up to 40 acres which is presently the minimum size excluded from subdivision procedure.

"Clayton Neill, Jr. and Carl Hooper appeared in opposition.

Supervisors continue amendment 60 days

At the request of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association and the Carmel Board of Realtors, the county board of supervisors last week Tuesday continued for 60 days consideration of an amendment to the existing subdivision ordinance which would boost coverage of the minor subdivision section of the ordinance from two and a half acres to 40 acres.

Asking for the continuance to allow time for further study were Miss Ruth Dodd, representing CVPOA who is its new president, and Mrs. Nancy Strathmeyer for the Carmel Board of Realtors, who is chairman of the Carmel Board's Community Planning Committee.

Supervisor Willard Branson made the motion for the 60-day continuance.

Mr. Neill stated that contiguous lots owned by the same person will make many lots illegal.

LEGALITY

"Upon questioning by Dr. Marcucci regarding the effect of this on existing minor subdivisions, Mr. Anderson stated that this was a subdivision ordinance and a minor subdivision is a part of this ordinance, and it was his opinion that any minor subdivisions that have already been approved would not have to file new applications under this ordinance. He further stated that this would also be true of standard subdivisions.

"In essence, any division of land that was legal, according to the laws existing at the time the division of land was made, is legal now.

"On motion by Commissioner Marcucci, seconded by Commissioner Clark, Resolution #68-3 was adopted, recommending approval of said amendment.

CVPOA board to hear ordinance

The proposed new subdivision ordinance and slope density formula will head the agenda for the next meeting of Carmel Valley Property Owners Association directors Thursday night, Feb. 1 at 8 p.m. at the Community Center, Pres. Ruth Dodd announced.

The following statement on the importance of the new county subdivision ordinance, passed by the planning Commission by the Planning Commission and now before the supervisors, was prepared by realtor Nancy Strathmeyer.

In regard to your coverage last week regarding the passing of the new proposed subdivision ordinance by the Monterey County Planning Commission, I would like to make a few comments.

This ordinance is of great importance to all property owners in the unincorporated areas such as Carmel Valley.

NANCY STRATHMEYER

One of the greatest challenges our generation and future ones must face is how man can control his environment's development for the enhancement of life, while not losing his sense of community and personal identity or cherished basic freedoms. Involved in this complex problem is the tendency of government continually to increase controls — very often using stereotyped methods which may or may not actually accomplish the truly desired goals of planning and conservation.

In addition, there is the inability of the average citizen or property owners to keep up with what is going on along these lines. Hence the existence of groups such as the CVPOA to represent them.

Through the years, CVPOA has not only served as the watch-dog of Carmel Valley's development and planning but has actively participated in the in the costs and efforts necessary for same and has done so in cooperation with the county Planning Commission and its staff.

Though the proposed new ordinance has been worked on by the Planning Commission's staff on and off over the past several years, the July 1967 edition became available late last summer. Early in September, as chairman of the Carmel Board of Realtors Community Planning Committee, I asked to be notified when the first study session would be held.

Other groups such as the civil engineers made similar requests.

SHORT NOTICE

On Nov. 10, a Friday, notices were sent out announcing a Nov. 15 first public hearing on the ordinance. These were received on Nov. 13, and some of us were given a copy of the November road standards to be included as we walked into the hearing!

During the hearing, we brought up numerous items which we felt were either unclear as written or highly restrictive in nature.

One such item was the requirement that design and engineering standards be the same for a person dividing his land into two, three, or four lots as a minor subdivision as for a professional subdivider. The requirements for same include eight pages of requirements and could result in engineering, legal, and application costs out of all proportion to the value of the land involved.

PENALTIES

Another point was the penalizing of a property owner who either still owns or later purchases a contiguous legal parcel of record only to discover that it has merged and become one site. And what if there is a house already on it? If it burns down, it is possible that if he has only one site instead of the original

"The motion was carried by unanimous vote of all Commissioners."

"It was the feeling of the Commission that the County Counsel's opinion should accompany the amendment to the Board of Supervisors."

The amendment to the ordinance preserves the geographic integrity in the development of land, Dr. Marcucci continued, and is in concert with CVPOA ideals, but is considered restrictive by some individuals.

It would seem that the plea for a continuance was more in the province of these individuals, rather than the CVPOA.

Over the years, your representatives, the staff, and the Planning Commission as a whole, have made the good fight for Carmel Valley, and with the cooperation and assistance of the people, will continue to do so.

two adjoining sites, he could not get a permit to rebuild, without going through minor subdivision procedure.

One study session did follow this hearing late in November, but was for two hours only, and only about half of the items were covered.

I then took to the CVPOA Board at its December meeting a list of the items of concern, and they then scheduled Ed DeMars, director of planning, to be their speaker at their next meeting on Jan. 11.

However, the ordinance—except for road and water standards, had been passed on Jan. 10 in spite of the CVPOA telegram requesting a 30-day delay.

Our volunteer planning commissioners work long hours and do a very conscientious and often thankless job as a community service, but they must rely on their staff for the basic ground work and recommendations for the work of the department.

Let us hope that in the future there will be a better set-up on the part of the staff for notifying the groups which are concerned and that adequate study sessions in the public interest will be held.

New, Space-age Listening Device Helps Many to Enjoy Favorite

TV-Radio Programs

A new, easy way to wear hearing device is now available (free of cost) to people of Monterey and San Benito Counties, it was announced recently by the Dahlberg Electronics, Inc. It will greatly help people with faded hearing by reducing the strain of listening to TV and radio programs. This space-age device has proven a blessing to those with impaired hearing, in addition, it is beneficial to others around them as it eliminates excess TV and radio volume. Citizens of Monterey and San Benito Counties may get their free device at 406 South Main Street, Salinas, California, 93901, or if they prefer, they may write "Hear Better" at the same address. This is for people with any hearing difficulty. It may help you as it has helped thousands of others. Only one to a person.

USPGS Religious art show has something for everyone

A fascinating conglomeration of arts and crafts, from untitled abstractions to an actual loaf of bread (whole wheat) mounted on a wooden block and titled "Give us this Day our Daily Bread"...from conventional madonnas painted in oil to an earth goddess modeled out of unbaked dough...and all lumped loosely together under the heading of religious art, opened this week in the ballroom of Herrmann Hall at the Naval Postgraduate School.

It is the fifth and probably the biggest and best of the annual Religious Art Exhibits sponsored by the Catholic Chapel Guild of NPGS, encompassing many faiths and denominations. It will continue through February.

It has "something for everybody," and if "everybody" doesn't agree with the judges' decisions, he can have fun picking his own winners.

Judges who divided $500 among nine artists were Cartoonist Eldon Dedini of Carmel, William Shaffer of the University of Iowa and Richard Dorby, professor of art at San Jose State.

Awards went to James Phillips of Soquel, Jerry Megert of Carmel and S.C. Yuan of Carmel, in the painting category; June Foster Haas, Carmel; Mike Andersen, Monterey, and Joe Purcell, Carmichael, sculpture; Xirli Ciapella, Pacific Grove; Roger Blum, San Jose, and Everett Turner, El Cerito, crafts.

Cited for honorable mention were Ellwood Graham, Gunnel Sedletsky, and Robert Vertal for painting; Guy Granger, Jeanne Link and Frederick Todd, for sculpture; Edna Kuhta, Rigmor Pariser and Cora Pahl, crafts.

An award in a new high school category was made this year to Linda Freeman of Seaside High.

An exhibit of school children's art is part of the show.

Kiwanians planted trees at Community Center last Sunday

A tree-planting community-service project at Carmel Valley Community Center was announced by Dr. Dean Campbell for CV Kiwanis Club at the club's meeting last week Tuesday noon at Los Laureles Lodge.

Dr. Campbell and other Kiwanians planned to plant at least 20 trees this past Sunday at the Community Center.

CV Community Center will also benefit from the annual District Kiwanis barbecue in the spring, to be chairmanned this year by Chuck Strathmeyer.

VIETNAM LETTER

George Clifford, vice president who presided, read a letter of appreciation from the captain of one of the military units in Vietnam, whose members received Christmas cards written by Tulare students in a project sponsored by CV Kiwanis.

Dr. Ed Marcucci reported that the Crosby golf tourney, of which he is an official, was an immense success this year. He sold about 50 tickets in the Valley personally and at least another 50 were sold locally, too.

Principal George Gustafson, Tulare principal, was slated to be speaker on education trends at a meeting of a brand new Alisal Kiwanis Club in Salinas last Friday morning.

AID TO SHERIFF

A plea for better cooperation with the sheriff's office was made by Herb Brownell. He reported that his new car had been stolen when left briefly at the Valley airstrip, that the Community Center had been broken into and that he had heard about a fire set by several boys in a camper which was in a garage of a local person who was home at the time.

"The sheriff needs all the help possible by people who know about crimes and will sign complaints," he declared.

Kudos to PG & E

In a month or two, the PG&E crews which have been constant companions in the Valley will probably be on their way to another job... somewhere in Northern California.

If you drive the Valley road to any extent, you have probably developed a waving relationship with some of the flagmen and they wave back as you drive by.

We would like to compliment them on their courtesy and the minimum amount of discomfort which they have caused travelers on the road. It is amazing that they have been able to plan the work day so efficiently that by rush hour time in almost all instances, the barriers are down... the road is mostly brushed free of dirt and rocks, and traffic can move smoothly.

(Even some of the PG&E officials have been amazed at the efficiency with which the crews complete the day and the small amount of traffic delays involved.)

Granted they are performing a service in extending the gas lines to the Valley, but they have also performed an additional service by being friendly and cooperative with those of us who will be the recipients of the natural gas.

Time is running out on Jack's Peak park

A little more than a week remains to save Jacks Peak as a park site. Feb. 5 is deadline for The Nature Conservancy to make a $45,000 down payment on 55 acres at the peak.

If this payment is not made, the long hoped-for park site could be lost to the public forever. Jacks Peak is the highest point, an elevation of 1,080 feet, on the Monterey Peninsula, and offers magnificent views in all directions. Preserved in its natural, forested state, it is ideal for hiking and picnicking.

The Monterey Peninsula Area General Plan some years ago envisioned a much larger park for the area. While sales to developers whittled it down, a conservation-minded local family three years ago purchased a 55-acre tract, including the peak itself, to save the property for a park.

The property was then conveyed to three trustees, Kenneth A. Ehrman, A. Gordon Hall and Talcott Bates, to hold pending completion of plans for acquisition as a park by a public or private agency. It was stipulated that buffer lands or easements surrounding the 55-acre tract be acquired to preserve its scenic beauty, the trustees to recover only costs of acquiring and holding the property.

The trustees' efforts have culminated in an option granted to The Nature Conservancy, a national, non-profit organization devoted to preservation of scenic landmarks. Conservancy representatives visited the site recently and were impressed with its beauty and importance of preserving it for the public. Local representative of the Conservancy is John McDaniel of Carmel Highlands.

If the $45,000 is raised locally, The Nature Conservancy, with hoped-for matching funds from the county or other agency, will hold the property until the county takes over. In the event The Nature Conservancy is unsuccessful in the drive for $45,000, contributions would be returned to donors.

The Sierra Club, which has long been promoting a Jacks Peak park, is planning an outing to inspect Jacks Peak next Sunday. The family-type hike will be a round-trip of about five miles, from Carmel Valley Rd. Those interested will meet at the Rancho Shopping Center at 9:30 a.m.

Time is short to achieve this all-important conservation goal.

PERSPECTIVE

Point Lobos and Carmel Bay from Jack's Peak park area. (See above editorial.)

WE GOT WORD from Sacramento, via a clipping sent in by Dale Wilson of Meadow Place, that Fish and Game Warden Les Golden of 134 Ford Rd. is now one of two wardens wearing a coveted No. 1 badge of the State Dept. of Fish and Game.

When Warden Taylor London of Sacramento retired recently he was wearing badge No. 1 and Dept. Chief Charles Fullerton had the difficult job of choosing his successor. He solved the problem by issuing two No. 1 badges, one going to Les and the other to John Hughes of Sacramento. Both men started work as wardens the same day... Aug. 15, 1937.

A NEW COURSE, "Marriage and Family Problems," for the Carmel Adult School schedule was approved last week by the school board. Various titles on the course study plan brought chuckles from the board members as they kidded Adult School Director Chuck Dawson, including the prerequisite that persons registering have to be married... at least once...

Kidding aside, Dawson stated that Henry Jorgenson who will teach the course is an excellent instructor and he considers it an important and worthwhile addition to the curriculum. Class is held on Thursdays from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

The Doctor says

(Write or phone your health questions to Dr. James Short, 103 Robles del Rio, Carmel Valley; telephone 659-4223.)

While I was serving in a hospital in Seoul, Korea, a few years ago, an American businessman brought his wife to me for an examination. During the course of the examination, it was found that she had a lump in one of her breasts about the size of a marble. It was not hard like a marble, but harder than the surrounding tissue. Except for this one area, the breast appeared normal.

There was no evidence of any spreading to adjacent tissues, such as the lymph glands. She had no pain or other symptoms. It was explained to this lady and her husband that a biopsy should be done—that is the surgical removal of a piece of the tissue for microscopic examination. This was the only way of telling whether this nodule was benign or malignant.

Since they were shortly to return to the States, they wanted to postpone this procedure. I consented, on condition that they'd act promptly on arriving at their home in America.

Later, I learned that she acted more or less characteristically. She postponed any surgical procedure until she had pain.

About six months after she was first seen, she went to a hospital where it was found that this nodule was indeed malignant and that it had spread to adjacent tissues. This meant an extensive surgical procedure, a long period of hospitalization, and a considerable amount of mutilation, followed by X-ray therapy.

BY

However, she made a good recovery, and when I last talked to her, about a year and a half after surgery, she was enjoying good health. Nevertheless it will require several more years to learn whether or not the cancer was entirely eliminated. Some cells may have escaped the surgeon's knife and X-ray, and may spring up later in some remote area.

What a shame that people will temporize in such matters! Early diagnosis and early treatment are, as the lawyers say, "of the essence."

Cancer of the breast, at the present time, is the most frequent malignant tumor to which women are susceptible. The rate in the female population of this country has remained approximately the same for the past 30 years, at about 25,000 deaths per year.

However, improved techniques have greatly increased the rate of cure. Over 50% of breast cancer cases are now being saved. Early diagnosis and treatment would greatly increase this percentage.

In my experience, women have usually discovered any abnormality in the breast tissue before seeing the doctor. It's considered good procedure for a woman to examine her breast systematically at least once a month. A definite technique for this has been devised, and directions are available at your local chapter of the American Cancer Society. Fortunately, most lumps found in the breast are not malignant.

However, there's only one way to be sure and that is to remove a piece of tissue for laboratory examination. With early diagnosis and modern treatment, probably 80% of breast cancer could be cured, as against 50% of all cases under present conditions. Will it be 50% or 80%? The answer depends on you.

The cause of breast cancer is unknown. There appears to be some hereditary influence. Another interesting fact which we can't explain is that the more children a mother has nursed, the less the incidence of breast cancer. The female sex hormones—that is, the estrogens—which have been used so extensively over the past 30 years, have not been found to cause breast cancer.

As an intelligent woman, what should you do? First, don't develop a cancer phobia. Don't panic if you find a little lump in the breast. Most of them are benign.

Go to your doctor. Have an examination. Follow his counsel. Don't balk at a surgical incision for diagnosis. Check your breasts regularly at home.

If women would give as much time to their health as they do to their appearance, much disease and suffering would be eliminated.

New director needed

Rock hound Ruth Getz reviews Pebble Pups' unique history

Ruth Getz, founder (five years ago) of the Pebble Pups of the Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society, who is resigning as director for lack of free Saturdays to donate to the youngsters, was honored with a gift from the club at the annual meeting last month.

Writing in the club's monthly bulletin, "The Prospector," Mrs. Getz reviewed Pebble Pup history with the hope that another leader will come along soon:

"The main objective of the group was to make it a family project, since it is one of the best educational and fun hobbies. In order to be eligible, the children had to be six years old, with a parent or relative who was a member of the Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society.

"Children are natural born collectors as they will pick up pebbles and fill their pockets from the time they can walk. Likewise, they are eager to learn all about the native rocks and minerals and make a collection.

"We have had a lot of real fun field trips locally, with all members of the family participating. Many senior members have shared their extra rocks and gems with the Pebble Pups so that each one has a sizeable collection.

"For the past five years we have had a nice display section at our 'Jubilee of Jewels' show, and the group worked hard on their club projects. The Bob Wilson family have had an exhibit each year. All the material the children hunted and found themselves in and around Carmel Valley. To keep up with their four Pebble Pups Bob and Betty even took a course in geology."

MARGARET BERRY

Planned to retire

Mrs. Berry likes to keep busy

"I never really intended to go into business again when we came to Carmel," commented Margaret Berry, owner of the Marberry Shop in the Su Vecino Court.

But after a short while of retirement after she and her husband, Verne, moved here from Southern California, she became bored, so, combining her first and last names for identification, she opened the Marberry Shop. It really isn't a one-man operation, however, because Verne does mailing, goes to the post office, and all the things that can't be done when you are tied to a store.

The Berrys decided to retire to Carmel 34 years ago when they honeymooned at the Highlands Inn... it only took them 27 years to make it.

Recently they enjoyed taking their room receipt down to show it to owner Bob Ramsey during the Inn's 50th anniversary. It cost them $5 per day for room and food back in 1933.

Margaret Berry came to the West Coast in 1932, from Illinois. At that time her brother was working for the SF Examiner and she took a job as secretary at the paper. She met Verne shortly thereafter.

He was in the wholesale ready-to-wear business and after they were married she used to work with him at the shows, selling to clothing buyers.

In 1940 they opened their own retail business in the San Marino-Arcadia area of Southern California.

Since she started the shop in Carmel, Margaret said that it has become known as the "shop of color," and this is very evident immediately upon entering. This is partly because it is stocked with almost 100% California merchandise... and these manufacturers are more wildly color conscious than those from other parts of the country, Mrs. Berry said.

It would seem that the decision to go back into business was a good one for Margaret Berry, for she fairly sparkles when she talks about her shop... and she certainly doesn't look bored.

Thomas new Art Town meeting to discuss taxes

Assoc. president

Succeeding Robert Davey as president of the Carmel Art Association this month is Charles Thomas (his second term).

Other newly elected officers are Ellwood Graham, 1st vice president; Sam Harris, 2nd vice president; Stephen Hennessy, 3rd vice president; Mable Landaker, recording secretary; Jessie Macgregor, treasurer, and Jane Buffington, corresponding secretary.

New board members are Edith Dinkin, Kenneth Wiese, Royden Martin, Doris Winchell Baker, Patricia Cunningham, Ardoth Terrill Hughes, Keith Lindberg and Reginald Machado.

The Carmel Art Association, between 5th and 6th on Dolores, is a non-profit organization owned and operated by the artists. The Board of Directors is elected from the active membership each year and acts as the governing body. Memberships are open to the public.

A one-man show of paintings by Sam Harris, most of them the result of the artist's recent years in Paris, is the current attraction in the Beardsley room of the association galleries.

Citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea and environs are invited to attend the annual town meeting, Thursday, Jan. 30, at the Parish Hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Lincoln and 9th.

Refreshments will be served at 7:30 p.m., followed by the introduction of new officers (balloting to be done by mail).

Subjects up for discussion will include property taxes and the increasing cost of government, gradual loss of local self-government, and how best to preserve Carmel in view of the opening of the freeway and the new shopping centers.

Carmel Citizens Committee members were asked to elect the following nominees or to write in candidates of their own choosing:

Executive vice president, Dr.

Exhibit in Seaside for Helen Dooley

Helen Dooley of Carmel has oils and water colors on exhibit this month at the new Seaside City Hall, located on Harcourt Blvd. off Canyon del Rey.

She is the owner of the Dooley Gallery in Carmel and a former professor of art at the University of the Pacific at Stockton.

James E. Gilman; directors, Mrs. Elise Beaton, Donn P. Madalie, Earl L. Moser and Dr. John Pasmore.

EUGENIA DUJMOVICH has taken mosaics and enameling from Eleanore Welborn in Carmel Adult School for the past two years. One of her favorite pieces is a large, intricate, mosaic plate. Here she removes an enameled platter from the kiln. The new semester begins Jan. 29.

Mission discussions for HS students

A series of discussions for high school students on the great soul-searching questions of this country such as racism, warfare, agnosticism, poverty, love, hate and the teen-age rebellion, is planned for the youth of the Carmel Mission Basilica.

The first meeting will be Monday, Jan. 29, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Crespi Hall. The serious view will be balanced by social activities. Students are invited to bring their friends. Discussions will be led by qualified speakers.

The second semester of the Carmel Mission Adult School of Religion will begin Feb. 6 and will be conducted by Mrs. Amadeo Cacace.

Classes will be held Tuesday evenings and Wednesday mornings. For further information call 624-2295.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

CROSBY GUESTS

Graeme and John Harrison reported one of their busiest days last weekend at Carmel Valley Inn and a lobby crowded with golfing visitors content to watch the finals on television rather than brave the elements. Even when the skies cleared, the Inn crowd found the Harrisons' hospitality so delightful that they remained in the Valley rather than joining the crowds at Pebble Beach...

Phil Furrey of San Mateo made his headquarters at the Valley Lodge while a guest of Pat and Don Wester during the Tournament...

Seen in the Village during the Tournament weekend looking dapper in his Tyrolean hat was former Valleyite Jack Cowan, former headmaster at Cowan School at Rippling River Ranch, and now a resident of Grass Valley...

Rancho Del Monte Resort's host and hostess, Rascha and Harry Gillette, listed as their guests for the Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Matzag and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Greer of Pacifica who were visiting Valleyite George Salinger.

LUNDINS MOVE

Leaving soon to make their home in Los Gatos are Honey and Jack Lundin. The popular couple who have taken such an active part in community projects for many years leave a host of friends who are glad to know that they will be within commuting distance.

Honey has modeled in many of the fashion shows in the area, worked in the White Oaks Theatre Guild and Women's Club. Her flair for unique and beautifully unusual decorating have turned many occasions into unforgettable events.

Jack has been a stalwart figure in Little League, made many friends in his contacts with real estate and WHO could ever forget his contribution above and beyond the call of duty as he rode in the Donkey Baseball game!

Much happiness to the Lundins in their new home. Their residence on Poppy Rd. has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Kell who have been renting in Carmel and found that they preferred our Valley climate. The Kells also have homes in Connecticut and Aspen, Colo.

VACATION TRIP

Mrs. Margaret Bennett and her children, Ron, Julie, Elaine, Laurie, Susie and Greg, of Laurel Dr. have pleasant memories of a vacation spent in the southern part of the state. They enjoyed exploring Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, Watts Towers, Busch Gardens and Marineland. In San Diego where they visited the zoo, they were house guests of former Valley residents, Mrs. Mildred Johnson and her daughter, Ramona.

It was on a day of sightseeing and shopping in Ensenada, Mexico that Marge discovered a charming filigree wrought iron and amber glassed lamp, but returning to make her purchase discovered the shop closed. Returning to the Valley, she found a nearly identical lamp and purchased her treasure at the OLE-ANDER GARDEN SHOP!

The Valley family made their trip home via Lancaster where they visited more former residents, Sharon and Dick Schenck and their children, Terre, Jeff and Gary.

STORY HOUR

Members of the Sand Box Set (3-5) are once again looking forward to the story telling session each Wednesday morning in the Village Library where they gather at 10:30 around Mrs. Louva Huntington, popular county librarian, who lights the storytelling candle and holds a spellbound audience of little ones as she draws from her vast repertoire of stories, songs and games.

Last Wednesday was a very special story day since it coincided with the fifth birthday of Raymond Cloyd. Mrs. Huntington had brought a special birthday story told with felt pictures, the children danced the Hokey-Pokey to phonograph music and enjoyed the birthday cupcakes provided by their Story Lady.

Ingrid Brook-Kothlow, one of the 18 children attending, also provided a candy treat for her friends.

WHAT'S DOING?

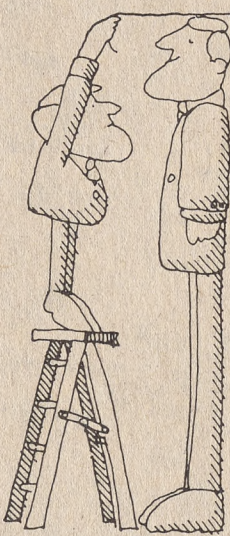

Have you ever received a misdialled call? Most of us have, I guess. And you know, many of these wrong numbers result from the party having the right number in mind, but accidentally dialing one number out of place. And just as one letter makes a big difference in a word, one number makes a big difference in a phone call.

Many people have found three easy ways to help their calls go through faster, easier and with less delay. They are simply:

- (1) look up the number before calling;
- (2) have paper and pencil near the phone and jot down the number before you phone; and
- (3) always watch the dial when dialing.

WNROG NUMBER?

What's 5 feet 9½ inches tall, has shoulders 18 inches wide and talks in a booth? The answer, according to Bell System engineers, is the average man using a telephone booth in the United States these days. Measurements such as these help us in designing new telephone booths.

But if you happen to be a little larger or smaller than Mr. Average don't worry—the new booths have been designed so that 97 percent of the adult population can conveniently use them. And whether you're an occasional visitor to a phone booth, or "practically live in one" as some people jokingly put it, we're trying to make the phone booths you use as comfortable and convenient as possible.

In the past I've written about the jobs being done by our Operators, Installers, Repairmen and many more. Now, I'd like to tell you about our specialist in the business field—our Communications Consultant. On the Monterey Peninsula Lloyd Finch and John Brady study business problems, let businesses know what telephone equipment best suits their individual needs and answer any questions about their service. The job performed by the Communications Consultant is another of the many services we offer at no added cost or obligation and is a vital part in providing good telephone service.

Carmel Adult School will start its semester on Monday, Jan. 29. During the past semester a total enrollment of 817 persons in the school of the 40 courses offered, both during daytime and nighttime hours.

A tuition fee of $5 per semester is charged for school graduates, 21 and over. There are no charges for the Parent Nursery School. Special books or materials are also extra. Students register at the Carmel Unified School District residence. Preference is given if classes become crowded.

Arts and crafts are high on the list of offerings with 115 enrolled in the eight pottery classes, a comparable number in the four wood classes.

Those enrolled in mosaics and enameling have access to materials for sand casting, jigsaws and stained glass technique.

There are over one hundred women enrolled in several classes of physical fitness. Most of them come at the same time, but the classes are spread out over five classes during the semester.

Languages, typing, citizenship and foreign speaking are also a part of the offerings.

From the tremendous enrollment expressed by the students in the adult school, it is obvious that the Carmel Adult School is a real need on the Peninsula.

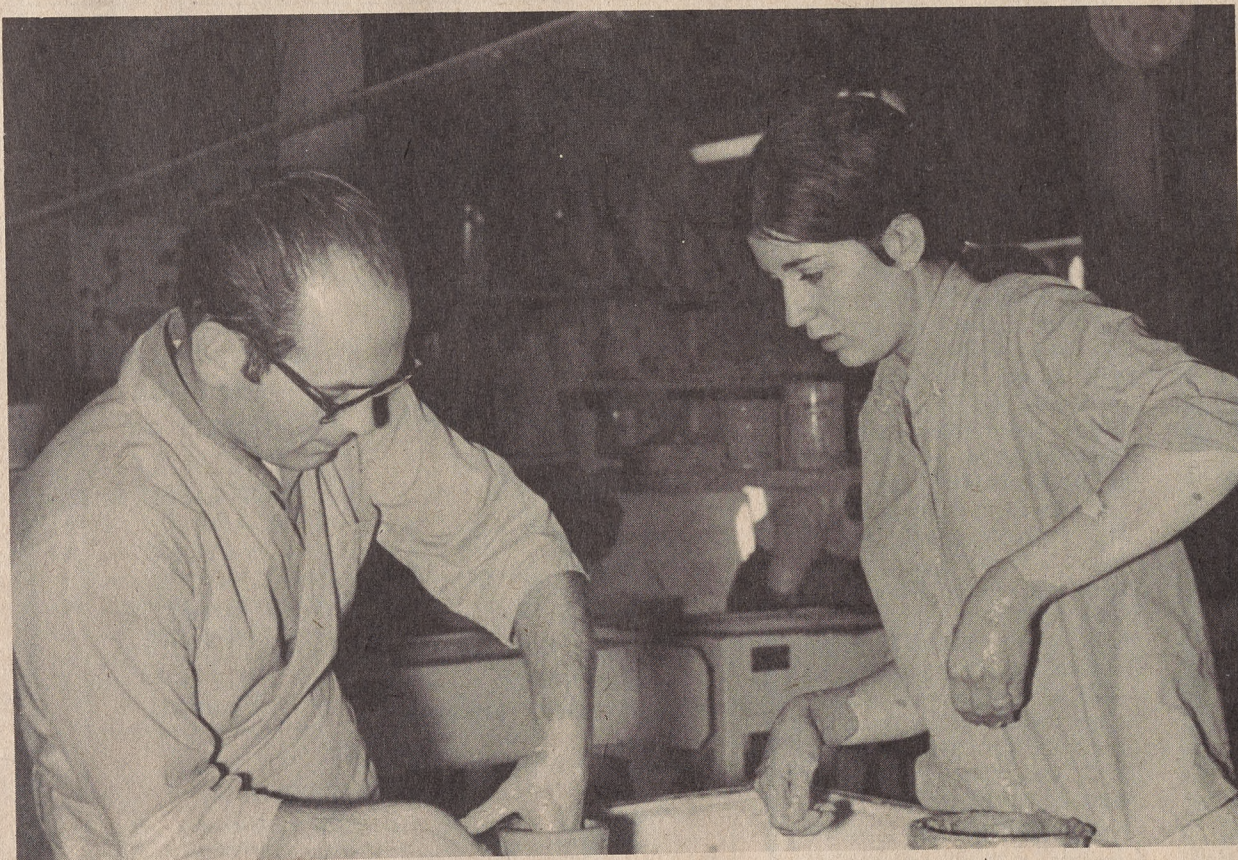

OUTDOOR SKETCHING CLASSES can be seen throughout the semester painting the picturesque and the beautiful of the Monterey Peninsula. Interested persons may call 624-1714 for information about Carmel Adult School.

DIANE CHATWIN (standing) has been conducting music classes since 1960. Held in the morning, many of the participants bring their toddlers on in time with the music.

school will start its second semester 1968. During the past session there was a total of 817 persons in the wide variety of classes offered, both during daytime and evening sessions.

A $5 per semester is charged for high school students 18 and over. There are additional fees for Parent Nursery School and life drawing. For special books or supplies these fees are waived. Students register at the first class, and for Carmel School District residents are given a $2 discount. Classes become crowded.

Art classes are high on the list of popular classes. There are eight pottery classes and wood carving in the four outdoor painting classes in mosaics and enamling also have a wide appeal. There are also classes for sand casting, silk screening, and glass technique.

Over one hundred women enrolled in the physical fitness... fortunately not at the same time, but the enrollment in the five classes during the week.

Physical education, citizenship and English for the young are also a part of the curriculum.

Because of the tremendous enrollment and enthusiasm of the students in the adult classes, it is no wonder that Carmel Adult School fills a distinct niche on the island.

There has been conducting women's physical fitness classes in the mornings in Room 17 of Sunset, where many bring their toddlers or infants along to gurgle.

Mrs. Frank Cieve (Irene) who has just retired after 19 years of managing school lunch programs on the Peninsula is enameling on copper. Miss Genevieve Gehres has just finished a mosaic Madonna which took six weeks to complete. This is her first semester in class.

FRANK CIEVE, a retired Navy School cabinet maker, tackled a leaded stained glass window which he is making for his son to install in his home. It took two weeks for him to complete it and solve the problem of sturdiness combined with beauty.

St. Dunstan's to dedicate kitchen at dinner

St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church will have its annual Parish Potluck Dinner this Thursday, Jan. 25 at 6:30 p.m. The highlight of this year's dinner will be the blessing and dedication of the new kitchen and classroom space which will precede the supper and business meeting.

The construction of the new kitchen has been under the direction of Mr. Mel Blevens, architect and Mr. Richard Wenzlik, chairman of the building committee. Mr. Ed Spears, contractor, began the construction two months ago, and the project was completed last week. It will provide a much larger kitchen for St. Dunstan's congregation as well as an added classroom space for the Sunday School.

Whole families are invited to attend the parish dinner and annual business meeting, and the young people will be entertained with a Disney movie entitled "The Alaskan Eskimo" and other cartoons, during the business meeting.

The nominations for the new members of the Bishop's Committee, to be elected by the congregation, are the following: Mrs. Walter Maxson, Mrs. James Stewart, Capt. George Clifford, and Col. Berle Huford. Two delegates to the Diocesan Convention will also be elected at this time.

Four young people, Mindy Rayne, Dale Butler, Greg Stegeman and Bob Kutschbach will sing a medley of songs during the dinner. These young people have patterned their singing after the "Modernairs" and have presented programs at various meetings on the Peninsula.

Other business will include the adoption of the 1968 budget, the acceptance of the committee reports, and the presentation of gifts to outgoing members of the Bishop's Committee: Mr. and Mrs. Earle Wilsey, Capt. J.N. Heiner, and Mrs. Don Quinto. The meeting will conclude with the prayers for the mission of the Church and the final blessing.

The Rhyming Philosopher

Though we've learned to place reliance
On the master minds of science,
And we even beat the Frechman's run on gold;
We can transplant human livers,
Even dam the wildest rivers,
But there's no one yet can cure the common cold.

Now the daily news informs us
That our taxes are enormous
And we're lucky if we ever keep ahead.
Private business must stay solvent
To avoid bankrupt involvement,
But the government is always in the red.

We can train the hungry savage
To raise better beef and cabbage,
And we'll soon control the hostile atmosphere.
We command a moon-probe missile
To obey our slightest whistle,
But we can't control the juveniles right here.

But the younger generation
Must assume participation
In these problems they'll inherit and must face.
Be they students or romancers
Let us pray they know the answers,
And find how to make this world a better place.

CHAPEL BRIDGE PARTY

Bridge tallies resembling gay yellow bonnets were the harbingers of spring complementing the yellow and orange color scheme chosen for the first benefit bridge and canasta party of 1968 sponsored by the Guild of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. When illness forced a last minute change in place and plans for the Tuesday party, Mrs. Luther Washington stepped in and planned a delightful afternoon at the Fellowship Hall (complete with her fabulous lemon chiffon pie for dessert). Assisting Paula were Mrs. Patricia DeAmaral, Mrs. Irving Ollason, and Miss Sara Oppenheimer.

Prizes, yellow containers planted with ivy, were awarded to Mrs. Paul Edwards who was high in bridge, Mrs. Elbert Wade, second in bridge, and canasta awards won by Mrs. Kathryn Walker and Mrs. Richard McKenzie.

Guests welcomed to the group were Mrs. Dorothy Ewing and Mrs. Lyde Mink.

The February 20th party will be held at the Laurel Dr. home of Mrs. Paul Edwards, with Mrs. John Hughes serving as co-hostess. Those planning to attend are asked to make their reservations by the 17th by phoning Mrs. Irving Ollason, 659-2440 or Miss Sara Oppenheimer, 659-4064.

Cookery

Corner

Featuring the favorite recipes of local cooks.

MRS. FRED POMEROY, JR., of Boronda Rd., Carmel Valley, shares two hearty meals and three desserts with us in recipe form ... all of European extractions.

Most are hand-me-downs from her Dutch mother and German father, with one from France collected during her school-teacher husband's sabbatical year (from Tularecito) in 1964-65.

He studied nine months at the University of Nice and they spent the remainder of their year abroad traveling in England, Holland, Austria and Germany with daughters, Anne and Flora, now 13 and 9.

CABBAGE CASSEROLE (Germany) Serves 4-6

1 medium cabbage
3/4 lb. thinly sliced bacon
1 lb. ground chuck
1 egg

2 slices bread
1/4 cup water
salt and pepper

Boil cabbage leaves for 10 minutes in salted water, drain. Soak crumbled bread in a bit of water. Add ground chuck, egg, salt and pepper and mix well. Now line a deep casserole with bacon slices. Next comes a layer of cabbage leaves, one of meat mixture, etc., ending with cabbage. Top with more raw bacon slices. Bake at 350 degrees for 1-1 1/2 hours. Serve with baked potatoes or french fries. A tasty winter dish!

KARTOFFELPFANNKUCHEN (POTATO PANCAKES) (Germany) Serves 4

4 large raw potatoes, peeled and grated
2-3 T. flour
2 eggs

1 small onion, chopped fine
1 teas. salt
dash of pepper

Mix ingredients and fry thin pancakes in deep fat (bacon fat is best), turning them until they are golden, not too crisp. Use low flame. Served with homemade hot applesauce (preferably Gravensteins cooked with peel and strained), it makes a yummy supper.

NUSSLI-MUS (Switzerland) Serves 4-6

3/4 cup rolled oats
3/4 cup water or milk
4-6 raw apples, grated

1 cup ground hazelnuts juice of 1/2 lemon
sugar to taste

Soak oats in water or milk for several hours in refrigerator. Add apples, nuts and lemon and return to refrigerator. For variation try bananas instead of hazelnuts.

Serve icy cold for breakfast or a light lunch, or as a dessert with cream.

CHARLOTTE DE POMME MONSEIGNEUR (France) Serves 4-6

4-5 peeled apples, cut in small pieces
4 T. sugar
1/4 tsp. vanilla extract

1/2 pack dried apricots, stewed and mashed
4 brioches, buttered

Cook apples in butter until golden brown. Add sugar, vanilla and stewed apricots (1/3 the volume of the apples). Line charlotte mold with slices of brioches buttered on both sides. Fill the center with your fruit and bake in moderate oven (325) until crusty. Unmold and serve hot, plain, with whipping cream or Sabayon Sauce.

SABAYON SAUCE

Mix 1/2 cup Madeira wine, 2/3 cup of sugar, and the yolks of 4 eggs in the top of a double boiler. Stir vigorously with a wire whisk over hot water until the sauce thickens.

RIS GLACE (GLAZED RICE PUDDING) (Holland, in spite of the French name)

1 cup rice
2 3/4 cups water dash of salt

juice of 3 large lemons
5 T. sugar, or to taste

Cook rice until done, not too dry. Add lemon juice and sugar and boil for a few minutes. Cool. Serve with vanilla sauce. Bird's Desert Powder is ideal. A favorite dessert in Holland.

This house has a built-in waterfall

THE RED ENAMEL fire place is placed on the upper level of the dining area overlooking the living room, with the stream flowing just below.

WATER FOR THE waterfall is piped in and controlled by a valve in the hall. It is not a natural spring, although it looks like it.

Have you ever had the desire to flee to the South Seas and live under a waterfall? ... How about a substitute?

When Larry Bernstein started working on designs for Dorothy Skinner's house, he asked if she'd like to have water flowing through the house ... and Dorothy said, "I'm for anything different ... let's try it."

So, the "house with the waterfall" was designed for an odd shaped lot at the top of Paso Hondo.

The design started out with a plan which Dorothy had done, indicating her needs in a house ... however, she said that it completely lacked punch and imagination, so Larry took it and built a house with style, on the basis of her plan.

Although the house is bordered on three sides by Paso Hondo Rd. as it curls around the hill toward the river bottom, there is a feeling of complete isolation inside.

The two bedroom, several level dwelling is built in the shape of a reverse comma, with high windows, just showing the tops of the hills on the upside, and expanses of glass which look out at a level above the road as it dips past on the downside. A bank of acacia trees screens the view of cars.

The house is two level, entered by a long hallway, bordered on one side by a bank of storage closets and the doors to the bedrooms, and on the other by a rough interior-exterior wall of Pebble Beach granite.

At the end of the hall is a slender window, lighting the waterfall, which tinkles out of the wall and drops into a pool at its base. On moonlight nights the pool picks up the shimmering reflection.

From there, the water drops below the open steps to the level of the living room three feet below.

The water follows the contour of the dining area just above it at ground level and then flows beneath a full two story glass window into a pool outside.

There are doors to the outside from every room and Dorothy finds she uses every inch of the house from end to end. Although there is a tremendous amount of variety in texture, levels, roof elevations and windows, she feels there is total unity in design and a feeling of belonging to the ground on which it is constructed.

This is a philosophy of architect Frank Lloyd Wright with whom Bernstein studied at Taliesin West.

Dorothy was a teacher in the art department of DOROTHY SKINNER'S house is shaped like a reverse comma.

Western Pennsylvania College and also is interested in photography so what would be the second bedroom and bath were built as a studio and bathroom, convertible to the more conventional use.

Off the bedroom there is a Roman bath with sunken tub and the first stoneware washbowl, designed and made by Rudi Marzi, Valley potter. This was made in 1962, before Rudi had figured out a method of casting them in one piece.

Friends often comment, Dorothy says, on how well the house fits her.

"No," she replies, "I learned to fit the house and it would be difficult now to live in an ordinary one."

● Parents Without Partners

"So You're Single Again?" is the provocative title of a discussion scheduled for the Parents Without Partners general meeting, 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 25, in the Monterey Youth Center, El Estero Park.

MRS. ELAINE JOHNSON

Mrs. Elaine Johnson, director of the sociology department at Monterey Peninsula College, will lead the discussion and conduct a question-and-answer period.

A coffee and social hour will follow during which interested persons may obtain more information concerning the activities of the group.

● Gem and Mineral Society

The Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society will make a field trip to Anno Nuevo Beach Saturday, Jan. 27 with Charlie Underwood as leader.

They plan to bring lunches and rendezvous at a "pull-off" on the Coast Highway 9 miles north of Davenport at 9 a.m. They will look for agates, fossil rock and whale bones.

● Sierra Club

An easy, family-type hike from Carmel Valley Rd. to Jacks Peak. Round-trip distance about five miles, with an elevation gain of 1000 feet. The trail is unimproved and hikers will brush against some poison oak. Be sure ankles, legs, wrists and arms are covered.

After lunch on Jacks Peak, which offers a marvelous 360 degree view, one group will return by the same trail; the other group will follow the ridge east of Jacks Peak, traversing the entire west-east distance of Del Monte Properties ownership and then follow an old wood road to the starting point.

Bring water and lunch. Meet at Safeway parking area, Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, at 9:30 a.m., Jan. 27.

● Fidelity Club

The Fidelity Club sponsored by the Carmel Valley Community Chapel will meet Feb. 1 at 6 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall on Village Dr. for a potluck supper.

Entertainment will be provided by the Immaculate Heart Sisters of Salinas. Musical selections will be presented by Sister Thomas Ann, Sister Rose Immaculate, Sister Gabriella, and Sister Saint Christopher I.H.M. The services of the Sisters are given to the hospital.

Mrs. Amy Mylar and her committee will contact members with information about covered dishes.

● Bridge Club

The Valley duplicate bridge tournament held Tuesday evening by members of the Valley Bridge Club at the Community Center was won by Mrs. Lyde Mink and her partner, Maurice Stoney.

In second place were Col. (ret) A.L. Friedenthal and his partner Langford Allen while third place went to Mrs. Mae Evans and her partner, Mrs. Gertrude Bisnett.

commercialize Carmel Valley per se," declared that "to commercialize a beautiful area such as this would be to destroy it. If we allow an over-abundance of commercialism, we can change our name to San Fernando Valley North."

He said that he felt the three shopping centers — the Village, mid-Valley, and the mouth of the Valley — are "the saturation point for commercialism in the Valley." He added: "But to improve on existing commercial is an entirely different matter."

Branson praised the Valley's "two excellent advisory committees to the County Planning Commission and the property owners' associations, which draw on your wealth of talent."

Major items of concern for Valleyites noted by the supervisor include four-laning Carmel Valley Rd., slope density formula, subdivision ordinance, drainage and possible incorporation.

NOTE TO PROSPECTIVE CLIENTS.....

We don't sell all our listings. Only 83%, to be exact. But there's one thing we are proud about: Our clients, even those whose real estate needs we can't satisfy, bring their best friends to us.

They say they like our old-fashioned, personal interest in their real estate problems, and the complete lack of high pressure in our attention to those needs.

Maybe you should try us, too.

plan joint get-to-gethers

The youth groups from the Carmel Valley churches are planning several joint meetings, perhaps once each month, open to eighth graders and senior high students.

The first meeting will take place on Sunday evening, Jan. 28, at 6 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. There will be a pot-luck supper, followed by a talk by Father Vincent Cowan.

The latter was a missionary in Chile and will tell the young people about his interesting experiences there.

His talk will be followed by games, and the evening will end with folk-singing to guitars, led by the St. Dunstan's group. All other members who play guitars are encouraged to bring them along.

A Mardi-Gras party is planned for Sunday, Feb. 25. A film, "The Parable," is scheduled for March 24, the fourth Sunday in Lent.

The planning committee meeting which was held Jan. 14 at St. Philip's Lutheran Church was attended by the following representatives: Rev. James Brock, Mrs. Earle Wilsey and Kitty Hansen of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church; Rev. J. Bernhard Bretheim, Mr. Dave Drakos, Miss Karen Cockerill, Debbie Nystrom and Steve Buck from St. Philip's Lutheran Church; Rev. Don Johnson and Marnie Mark of the CV Community Chapel; and Rev. Vincent Cowan and Mrs. W. Gibb Hatch from Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church.

Spring schedule is set for MPC classes

MPC's spring semester schedule of classes is now on sale for 15 cents at the college bookstore. Students may select courses leading to an Associate in Arts degree and transferable to four-year colleges and universities for the bachelor's degree. There are also many vocational courses in aviation, business, business data processing, dental assisting, electronics, engineering technology, medical assisting and police science, several of them leading to certificates.

Adults in the community desiring to take full daytime programs or one or two courses are welcome at MPC, according to Dr. Jack Bessire, dean of student personnel.

Though actual registration will not take place until Feb. 1 and 2, there are pre-registration procedures which must be completed by all new day students before those dates, he said.

First step is to file an application at the college administration building, meanwhile requesting transcripts from the high school and/or college(s) attended.

Applicants must also take a college placement examination in the library lecture hall on campus and at that time, they will be assigned appointments with counselors.

NEW EVENING COURSES

Several new and re-introduced courses have been added to the evening division curriculum for the spring semester at Monterey Peninsula College, according to Dr. Keith Merrill, MPC evening and community services dean.

The courses include:

Advanced shorthand, Investments, covering the principles, types and operation of investments as well as the operation of investment market; Civil engineering drawing; Technical writing.

Supervision and inspection of construction; Water pollution control; French literature in English translation; Advanced Spanish (Note: MPC's evening language courses do not generally earn credit, but students may receive college and transfer credits on petition); History of the Middle East; The child, the family and the community.

Several electronics institutes designed to train students in such specific skills as electronics fabrication, AC and DC circuits, printed circuit processes and television servicing.

Mail registration for MPC's spring evening semester (Feb. 5-June 14) will continue through Jan. 24. Registrations on campus will take place Feb. 1 and 2, 6:30 to 9 p.m. in the Armory.

Brochures containing complete listings of courses and registration forms are available at the college on request.

40 YEARS OLD AND STILL GROWING?

Yep! And do you know something? We planned it that way!

Know something else? We're tickled pink! Like we've said before: Size isn't one of our major objectives . . . we just want to make SVS the best all-around association that we can.

Happy Birthday.

Thank you.
